Enhancing Business Support Organisations and Business Networks in the Southern Neighbourhood:

is project co-financed by the European Union and coordinated by BUSINESSMED (Union of Mediterranean Confederations of Enterprises) as part of a consortium of six partners. More than thirty organisations from 26 countries are also affiliated to the project.
The ultimate goal of this 4-year project (2018-2022) is to promote the Mediterranean Business Ecosystem by boosting investment and job creation in the region with a view to economic growth. The Academies offered a comprehensive learning experience that seamlessly blended theoretical concepts with practical applications. Through an interactive approach, participants were encouraged to actively engage in the learning process. Employers’ BSO thematic committees

EBSOMED established 7 Thematic Committees over the duration of the project. These committees were designed to ensure the follow-up of structural macro-economic progress in South MED countries, focusing on specific goals related to transversal topics and priorities in the Euro-Med Region. Additionally, their aim was to ensure internal coherence within this progress, with a particular emphasis on promoting the private sector, sustainable growth, and employment, especially through the engagement of Employers’ Confederations.

Originally, the project planned for three Thematic Committees to tackle important issues such as skills development and vocational training, gender mainstreaming and women empowerment, and education & research and development (R&D) on energy technologies.

Due to the success of these committees, the project expanded by adding four new committees that complemented and built upon the initial three. The four new thematic were: The green deal, Digitalization, Internationalization of SMEs, and the empowerment of women and young entrepreneurs.

By leveraging their expertise, these committees played a crucial role in driving progress and facilitating collaboration among stakeholders.

EBSOMED label for BSO services

The main objective of the Labelling BSOs activity was to create a special quality label for Chambers of Commerce and Business Support Organizations (BSOs) in the Mediterranean region. Unlike in the European Union, there wasn't a system in place to ensure or evaluate the quality and range of services provided by Mediterranean BSOs.

The purpose of this quality label was two-fold. Firstly, it would help assess the services offered by BSOs and determine their quality through a self-assessment process. Secondly, it would serve as a way for BSOs in the Mediterranean to connect and share information about the services they provide, best practices for managing their organizations, and other helpful insights. These connections would be essential for striving for excellence and making improvements.

The project drew inspiration from the Union of Chambers and Commodity Exchanges of Türkiye (TOBB), which had developed a quality management system to evaluate different skills and abilities of Chambers and Exchanges in Turkey. This system had been beneficial in promoting knowledge sharing and improving the services and internal operations of BSOs in the country.

By adopting TOBB's successful approach, the Labelling BSOs activity aimed to achieve similar results in the Mediterranean region. The goal was to create a quality label that would not only provide reassurance to stakeholders but also foster collaboration and the exchange of ideas among BSOs.

An label was then designed inspired by the EBSOMED Charter and two cycles of training were conducted to introduce, educate and inform the Chambers of Commerce about the importance and benefits of the labelization process. The objective was to equip them with the knowledge and understanding needed to pursue the EBSOMED label and meet the necessary requirements.
Impact rating tool

EBSOMED developed of an online tool called IMPACT RATING, which served economic development organizations in assessing the impact of investment projects or companies on their territories. The tool was customizable to suit the strategies of various organizations and countries. It had been developed by the ANIMA network in collaboration with several development banks, business associations, investment promotion agencies, and environmental NGOs. The tool was compatible with international standards and norms on social responsibility and sustainable development, aligning with most established guidelines.

Previously known as the EDILE rating methodology, the tool was originally developed under the EDILE project and in collaboration with partners during the ENPI CBC MED program (2007-2013). EBSOMED updated the tool, changing its name to IMPACT RATING and designed a new logo. Its primary function is to enable the comparison of performance between companies or projects in the same sector or with similar characteristics.

By utilizing IMPACT RATING, organizations and BSOs could offer incentives, technical assistance, financial support, or even prestigious labels to the best-performing entities based on tangible and objective criteria. The tool could be configured and criteria weighted to align with the specific needs and priorities of different territories, countries, or companies. It provided a comprehensive framework for assessing impact across different categories, accommodating the unique strategies of each organization.

With the introduction of IMPACT RATING, EBSOMED aims to contribute to a more informed business ecosystem, empowering economic development organizations to evaluate and reward positive impact in line with their respective goals and strategies.

The Business country desk

The digital platform of the Business Country Desk (BCD) represented a pivotal aspect of EBSOMED’s development strategy, focusing on fostering entrepreneurship and investment. In recent years, BUSINESSMED has dedicated significant efforts to creating a versatile tool that promotes talent, facilitates international business expansion, fosters networking opportunities, and advocates for the enhancement of the entrepreneurial ecosystem across Europe, the Mediterranean, and Africa.

Originally established in physical format back in 2007, the BUSINESS country desks have played a vital role in facilitating business development within the region. However, with the advent of the digital era and with the invaluable support of EBSOMED, BUSINESSMED has successfully transformed this process. They have introduced the digital version of the BCD, an intuitive and accessible online platform that provides companies, entrepreneurs, and investors with both human and technical support to foster high-value partnerships.

The ultimate objective of the BCD platform is to become the go-to digital resource for B2B interactions and business collaborations. Since its launch, the platform has evolved by incorporating an e-learning module service and integrating relevant project documents and publications. Joint Activities with donors, banking and non-banking

Two collaborative initiatives involving donors have been combined to form a comprehensive two-day event, bringing together 279 representatives from Euromed and Arab Chambers of Commerce, private sector stakeholders, financial institutions, and Business Support Organizations (BSOs). This event aims to leverage the biannual MEDAFINANCE conference, focusing on the transversal priority of improving access to finance.

During this event, significant progress achieved in the field of access to finance will be showcased, and the 2019 MEDAFINANCE survey will be launched. This survey serves as a unique reference guide, providing information on grants, technical assistance instruments, lines of credit, and innovative non-banking financial tools available for Mediterranean SMEs. It includes details on eligibility criteria, relevant sectors, and contact information.

To ensure the survey remains up-to-date, annual updates have been conducted, making it accessible to relevant EU programs and projects that emphasize access to finance, such as the MEDMSMEs program. Additionally, a targeted e-alert focused on access to finance and funding opportunities has been distributed to a database of over 4,000 contacts.

Through targeted sessions and interactive discussions, participants had the chance to showcase their products, services, and expertise, while also identifying synergies and exploring avenues for collaboration. The Fora acted as a catalyst for initiating productive conversations and fostering meaningful connections between businesses from different backgrounds and geographical locations.

The outcomes of these B2B meetings were instrumental in creating tangible partnership opportunities, allowing companies to expand their networks, access new markets, and tap into the expertise and resources of potential collaborators. SAC brought together high-level panels consisting of industry experts, commercial actors, and private sector representatives. These panels engaged in constructive dialogue with governmental and international bodies. The event provided a valuable opportunity for experts and Business Support Organizations (BSOs) to share their experiences and insights, focusing on key priority sectors and niche areas that could immediately contribute to the regional economy.

Through SAC, key sector challenges were discussed, and ongoing solutions and initiatives were presented to make these sectors more sustainable and successful. Regional promotional campaigns

During the lifetime of EBSOMED, a series of five regional promotional campaigns were meticulously planned. These campaigns served the purpose of presenting the project’s objectives, raising awareness about EBSOMED’s specific goals, and reaching a wider audience in the target countries. The primary aim was to strengthen the visibility of the European Union’s commitment to its partner countries in the southern Mediterranean region.

In the initial campaigns, the focus was on increasing awareness and engaging a broader audience throughout the project’s duration. These efforts included highlighting the content and expected outcomes of EBSOMED.

As the project progressed into its second year, the promotional campaigns shifted their focus towards showcasing the progress made and the initial results achieved by EBSOMED. They became platforms for sharing success stories that emerged from the project’s implementation. The campaigns extended their reach across the Euromed Region, with a particular emphasis on Southern Neighbourhood Countries.

These promotional campaigns were instrumental in building momentum for the project, creating broader awareness, and effectively communicating its achievements. With a specific focus on women entrepreneurs, these roadshows featured keynote speakers and successful female entrepreneurs who shared their valuable experiences and insights on the journey to business success.

The intervention strategies deployed during the roadshows were designed to address key areas such as promoting women’s access to markets, fostering an entrepreneurial culture for women, emphasizing the role of corporate social responsibility (CSR) in women’s economic development, and supporting the integration of women in business associations.

By facilitating discussions on youth and women’s access to markets, the roadshows aimed to dismantle barriers and unlock new opportunities for aspiring entrepreneurs.
